

VSCI 400 : Basic Animal Physiology

The pre-veterinary animal physiology course exposes students to a wide variety of topics within the field of comparative physiology. The course aims at deepening the understanding of how various life-forms have adapted to their environment niches from the most simple aquatic cellular organisms to highest terrestrial mammals.

Core Course

Credits 3