

BUSI 880 : Business Thinking

This course will help students learn and practice skills that transcend any single discipline or function of management. Students explore business issues broadly, while developing analytic and persuasive skills in addressing environmental, organizational, relationship and personal issues. This course helps participants to identify critical questions to dissect and prioritize issues, to develop reasoned positions, and to make compelling arguments.

Core Course