

BUSI 859 : Project Management

Virtually all organizations use project management to accomplish specific tasks, implement improvements, reach new markets, and innovate. Project success directly impacts the availability to achieve financial performance and gain career promotions, and serves as the foundation to deliver healthy, cultural environments and meaningful work. This course will teach the concepts and techniques of project design, management, and assessment, and develop skills applicable to a variety of projects within international business.

Core Course