

BUSI 885 : Fin Accting & Managerial Fin

This courses explores how finical management affects decisions in health care. Classical and emerging analytical methods applied to the financing, investment and operational components of health care delivery are presented. An overview of the organization of finical management in health care, revenue sources, cost accounting and analysis, the setting of care rates, and capital management practices are also covered. Planning an budget for optimal health management are introduced in the framework of current health policies and reforms.

Core Course