

SOCI 201 : Introduction to Sociology

This course provides students with an introduction to an understanding of man and his society. It explores the process of socialization, families, marital, educational, religious, political, and economic institutions.

Core Course