

BUSI 306 : Corporate Finance

This course will expose students to the basic measures of business performance, methods for analyzing the value of business investments, an assessment of the importance of financial market conditions to the profitability of the firm, techniques of financial forecasting, and rules for making long-term investment decisions. The course explores the impact of the stock market on the firm.

Core Course