

COMH 115 : Health Education

This course provides an understanding of the principles and scope of health education and health promotion. People often have firm views about what health education means and interpretations are guided by professional background, experience, and connotations of the words “health” and “education.”

Core Course