COMP 221 : Introduction to Robotics

This course is an introduction to robotics through which students can increase their ability to be creative and innovative thinkers. This is a lab-based course that uses a hands-on approach to introduce the basic concepts of robotics, any topics necessary to understand the fundamentals to designing, building and programming robots.
Core Course