

ENGL 338 : Applied Medical Communication

Applied Medical Communication is designed to help students develop communication skills for the medical interview. Students will discuss the impact of culture on medical professionalism and how the relates to doctor-patient interaction. Students will identify culturally appropriate modes of communicating with patients. Students will discuss and evaluate performances of themselves, their peers and professionals.

Core Course