

GENL 105 : Intro to University Life

The information provided in this course is vital to student success at St. George's University. The course will be delivered through interactive information sessions run by various departments of the University. Information presented in these sessions is particularly geared toward helping freshman students to adjust to, and succeed in, a university setting. Attendance is compulsory. Absenteeism will be recorded. Instructors will expect students to have the knowledge outlined in these sessions and will grade accordingly.

Core Course