

MBIO 205 : Principles of Ocean Science

This course provides an introductory overview of the marine environment focusing on the physical characteristics of the oceans. Through lectures, presentations, discussions, and group work, the components of our planet's largest ecosystem will be explored.

Core Course