

PHIL 102 : Contemporary Religion

This course will examine several of the world's great religions in terms of their history, texts, and impact on society. Students will examine the challenges to these religious institutions, as well as their own personal faiths, in the light of the modern scientific and technological culture in which we live.

Core Course