

POLI 200 : Intro to Political Science

This is a survey course introducing students to the discipline of political science. It covers concepts relating to state systems, beginning with an introduction to central political ideas. This course is intended to inform students about the range of ideas and themes of interest. Contemporary global events and issues are central to the course.

Core Course